[Overwhelming Love]

Swami Aseshananda was awfully kind to me. I had met him many years ago when Vedanta was located at the Park House. In those days he seemed indrawn. Later, when I came to the new center, I felt like I didn't deserve his kindness. I felt guilty about my worldly life, yet he was so kind to me.

When Swami was on his deathbed, people would come and someone would say who was there. After seeing him there, I broke down in the parking lot outside. His love was overwhelming.
